THE TELEGRAPH.

Friday Morning, Oct. 22, 1880.

LOCAL NEWS.

—There was a regular meeting of the Council last Wednesday evening.

—E. L. Lamson, Esq., will address the Republican of Monroe Centre on Saturday eve. Oct. 23. Turn out all and hear facts.

—Mr. E. A. Hitchcock suffered a relapse and has been confined to his bed again during the past week with typhoid fever.

—There are grave fears that the epidemic will reach the political wheel here.

—The Standard, in that case would lose one of its smartest quill drivers.

—The fall shipments of poultry for the New York market has commenced, and on Wednesday last 2800 pounds were forwarded from Ashtabula by the American Express company.

—An entertainment and supper will be given on Friday evening, Oct. 23, in the basement of the church for the benefit of the M. E. Sunday School. Entertainment to commence at 7:30. Admission 15 cents. All are cordially invited.

—Devon & Co's store at Orwell, was entered by burglars on Friday night last, and the safe opened and rifled of its contents, consisting of $100 of the firm's money $75 township funds; Agricultural society funds $235, and several small deposits.

—Those interested in good horses will do well to read Mr. Towle's letter, in another column, on Spavin, Ringbone, etc., with methods of treatment. We are informed that Mr. Towle is one of the best agricultural writers in Vermont, and no doubt his investigations on this subject will be of great benefit to horse owners.

—On Friday last Mr. James L. Morgan, of Geneva, became suddenly deprived of his powers of memory. His mind became so clouded—as we gather from the Times—on reaching his home after attending to some business at the village as to be unable to recollect transactions of the morning. He arose on Saturday—the day following—with his usual clearness, with the exception of that dark Friday, which remains a blank.

—We call the attention of our readers to the advertisement of the great house of E. M. McGillivray & Co., Cleveland, O., which appears on our front page. This firm are always introducing some new feature into their immense business. They have built a large block this summer which they opened on October 1st, and in it are Reading Rooms, Dressing Rooms and Check Rooms which are free to lady customers; also a Lunch Room where they serve lunches at call. We need not advise our lady readers to call on them when in Cleveland, we know they will all do it.

—The street encounter between the elder L'Hommiedieu and George Fargo, took place last week growing out of the plauding—clandestinely—of young L'Hommiedieu. In the tussle L'Hommiedieu pricked Fargo with a pocket knife, in the region of the ribs, and Fargo caught his assailant by the throat. The knife was taken from L. and Fargo taken off. An arrest followed, and L'Hommiedieu arraigned before Justice Taylor, who required a recognizance of $2,500. The charge before the justice, was assault with intent to kill. The case went to the grand jury, and on Wednesday, as we learn, a true bill was found against L'Hommiedieu, the assailant.

—"Cooking and Castle Building," is the title of a handsome volume just published by James R. Osgood & Company, Boston, which deserves more than a passing notice. The attempt of the writer Mrs. E. P. Ewing, to present in the form of a story a great deal of useful information upon the best methods of preparing food, has, we think, been eminently successful.

Unlike any other cook-book we have seen the volume before us is devoted to the consideration of those articles which constitute our daily diet. The chapters on bread-making are alone worth the price of the book. While the directions for making coffee, to a lover of that delicious beverage, would no doubt be prized still more highly.

While as a cook-book, "Cooking and Castle Building" seems to us of great value, still its underlying sentiments, strike us as being of still greater importance. Housework and kitchen work are, in these pages, lifted out of an atmosphere of drudgery and digressed into refined, cultured society. Cookery is represented as one of the fine arts, well worthy the careful study of the most delicate, high-minded women.

We heartily commend the book and wish a copy could be placed in the hands of every young woman in the county. For sale by all booksellers. Sent by publisher on receipt of price—one dollar.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS.

A LARGE MEETING OF SMALL MATTERS BUT THROUGH THE HOPPER—ANOTHER LARGE PAY ORDINANCE.

The Council met in regular session on Wednesday evening last; all members were present except Councilman Hancock. Minutes of previous meeting read and approved.

The street Commissioner was directed to restore the spring water on Mill Hill on premises of Seth Wells and Willard estate to the watering trough.

A petition bearing 161 signatures was read, praying the Council to extend the west end of Camp street through the Cheney property to Nathan street. Referred to street Committee.

The street Commissioner was directed to stop work on the opening of the Lockwood ditch and the matter was referred to the Sewer and Drain Committee to thoroughly investigate and report at next meeting.

The street Committee was directed to take earth on Prospect street where above grade, to complete the fill in front of Alford, Collins, Allen, Wright, McKenzie and Kline, property on said street; also to make necessary repairs to Bridge street.

The Clerk was directed to purchase a book for keeping a record of delinquent sidewalk repairs.

The Gas Committee was directed to ascertain the necessity of placing a street light on front street at the Harbor.

The Sewer and Drain Committee was directed to examine the Main street gutter at corner Centre street; and if deemed expedient to change the course of ditch water down Centre street to Park street sewer also, directed to investigate the matter of draining and opening street on Fawcett avenue with power to act.

Ordinance for a six foot stone or brick sidewalk on East side of Park street between Division and Church streets was read for the first time, and adopted upon a suspension of the rules.

An ordinance to provide for the keeping and working of prisoners upon the street, etc., was read for the first time, and motion made and lost to adopt the ordinance upon suspension of the rules.

The chairman of Fire and Water Committee was authorized to purchase a bed to be placed in Engine house No. 3, for the engineer and fireman of steamer.

The bill of David Sloan of $30.37 for sidewalk grades, etc., was ordered paid from the general fund, and the bills recommended for payment by the Board of Health were placed on the pay ordinance.

An ordinance for the payment of claims for the month of September amounting to $207.62, was passed upon a suspension of rules. Adjourned 12 p. m.

BROKE DOWN.

About noon last Sunday, during the height of the fearful gale that was blowing from the westward, the propeller Lehigh of the Anchor Line appeared off this harbor, under sail and flying a signal of distress. The tug Dexter went out to her and learned the engines of the Lehigh had broken down. On account of the size of the propeller and the heavy sea and strong wind that were prevailing, the captain of the Dexter declined to assume the risk of towing her into this harbor, and was directed to telegraph to Erie for a tug to meet the Lehigh off that harbor. The steam barge Gordon Campbell of the same line happened to be in this harbor and learning the condition of things aboard the Lehigh went out and took her in tow for Erie.

A large crowd of spectators collected on the point and watched with great interest the movements of the boats as they labored in the heavy sea. While the Dexter was outside it seemed as though she would founder in every sea, but she rode the waves like a feather, and was undoubtedly the means of saving the disabled Lehigh from being wrecked.

BOARD OF HEALTH.

There was a special meeting of the Board of Health on Tuesday evening last; the President, Clerk and the following vigilant protectors of the public health were present: Swift, Gregory, Hall, Topky and Reed. Absent, Dr. Hubbard.

On motion a committee of two composed of Topky and Reed were appointed to examine a book on nuisance, with permission to purchase one copy.

Payment was recommended to the Council on the following bills:

F. D. Case, Health Officer, $10.00
James Reed, Jr., Clerk Board, 2.00
James Thorpe, Sanitary Policeman, 26.40
Sperry & Griffin, advertising, 2.25
James Reed & Son, " 2.25

Adjourned. $42.90

PLYMOUTH DEMONSTRATION.

The Republican justification meeting at Plymouth last Saturday evening, was a very successful effort and will have the effect of bringing out every Republican voter to the polls on the second of November. The North Kingsville cavalry, Kingsville foot company, Ashtabula cavalry and Plymouth foot companies made a grand torch light parade, and Frank A. Pettibone, addressed the audience in front of the town hall. After the torch-light parade the companies were marched into an orchard on the premises of Mr. Randall Seymour, where an excellent cold lunch, with hot coffee was furnished, free to all present.

THE REPUBLICANS OF KINGSVILLE hereby invite all torchlight companies in the county to meet at that place for supper and drill on Friday evening, October 29th. There will probably be a short speech, of which due notice will be given, but the main feature will be the parade. Captains of companies who accept the invitation are requested to send a postal card stating the probable number of men who will comprise their company on that evening, addressed to M. L. Davis, Captain Garfield Guards, Kingsville, Ohio.

—Messrs. E. A. Hitchcock & Co. of Ashtabula have started a mill at Bloomfield station, for the manufacture of handles, of which 1000 per day are turned out. The mill is under the charge of C. W. Amidon, Esq.

COUNTY NEWS.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS. KINGSVILLE.

Well, the October election is over and we again take a long breath and settle down to the sober realities of life. It is easy to tell Republicans from Democrats now by the expression of their features and the shape of their faces.

Business of all kinds is as lively here as though the country was not going to wreck and ruin by the Republican victories in Ohio and Indiana. Merchants are busy handing out goods to customers, the meat markets are running at their full capacity, our barber—Woodbury—has been obliged to put in an extra chair, Miss Lefinwell, the popular milliner, has a young lady assistant helping her to adorn the heads of the female portion of our community, the drug stores are lively with people who want "pills," and, in fact, the only change we want is the kind that jingles, and we have our share of that.

Frank Eastman's new and elegant sign is bringing him in lots of customers, who are anxious to see what it all means, and when they have walked into his parlor he gives them fits and sends them away happy. Frank looks ahead, and consequently has laid in a good stock of hats suitable for election bets.

Our Garfield Guards enjoyed themselves very much in Plymouth on Saturday evening, and seemed to relish the chicken very much, judging from appearances; the remains of the fowl—after they had left the table—presenting very much the same appearance that the Democratic bird did on morning of the 13th.

Mrs. D. L. Hickok has returned from Norwich, Connecticut, and on Sunday evening entertained the congregation at the Presbyterian Church with an interesting, descriptive account of the missionary meeting at that place. Isaac Wood.

ORWELL.

Many citizens of this place are making preparations to visit Garfield's residence on Friday, and if the weather is favorable our inland villages will respond to the call and send a good delegation to greet the next President of the United States. Ought we not to feel proud of such a man and the localities which produce such brilliant talents? The people are willing to show their high appreciation of his character and ability, as is shown by their continued demonstrations, and in November thousands who now are on the anxious seat will respond to the call of the bugle, and accept the noble principles of the Republican party and its standard-bearer.

Orwell has again been visited by some notorious burglars, who came off victorious, capturing about $400 in currency. Messrs. Geo. B. Devos & Co's safe was opened and rifled, and after securing all they could find an attempt was made on Myers & Pook's, but the presence of the clerk admonished them that it was time for them to take sudden departure. No clue as yet.

Dr. Fitts' friends gave him a surprise last evening, it being their 5th anniversary. Arrangements are being made to have a political speech on Thursday or Friday evening of next week.

Examination was held at Orwell on Monday, with an attendance of about 40.

SAYBROOK.

Our Democratic friends here are quite mild and peaceful since the election, and seem to avoid their Republican neighbors, and do not like to be asked, "Have you heard from Indiana this morning?" It is said that a prominent Democrat in this town bet with a hopeful Republican that Ohio would not give 10,000 Republican majority at the State election. We hear that the figures went away above that, so of course he lost. They had better not wager any more on the pending election, for the evidence of a grand triumph of the Republicans in November is, to my mind, as clear as a sunbeam.

Mr. David Batchelor, for many years the mail-carrier from the postoffice to the station, has sold his house and lot to Mr. Joseph Garner for $500, and has gone to Pittsburg to live with his son, D. Batchelor, Jr. Mr. James Sutherland takes his place as mail carrier.

The first quarterly meeting for Saybrook and North Geneva was held here last Saturday and Sunday, Moses Hill, P. E., conducting the exercises. Quite a number of the Geneva people were in attendance both Saturday p. m. and Sunday.

Religious meetings have been held in the church at Rose's Corners in Austintown several evenings last week, and are expected to continue the most, if not all of the week, beginning to-night. The ministers taking part thus far, are Revs. Shaffer, Bliss and Pouts. Rev. A. D. Barber is expected to preach on Wednesday night. The Sunday school in No. 11, W. H. Brown, superintendent, is closed for the season.

Mrs. James Van Allen on the sick list, and has been so ever since she came back from York State.

The Young Peoples C. T. U. is temporarily suspended, but we hope will ultimately resume. The Murphy organization, we fear, has gone where the woodbine twines, having held no meetings since corn planting. Oct. 19, 1880.

AUSTINBURG.

The marriage of Prof. Tuckerman's second daughter—Lillian—to Rev. Harvey B. Roberts, of Providence, R. I., was attended by a fair church full of people. It was not needlessly showy but, in fact, a Puritan wedding. Prof. Ransom and Dr. Allen, as ushers, received the guests with becoming cordiality and preceded the bridal party in the march to the front. Prof. Hopkins played appropriately the wedding march. The services were entered into by the speaker as though it was a living, vital and actually interesting epoch in the life of ministers and candidates and not a stagsong, pro-form measured out in a faraway tone of ecclesiastical monotony. The long form of Episcopal usage was not needed to marry this couple and was omitted, with the reverential bow. The loving kiss bestowed upon the wife by this husband, with a hearty good wish that warmly indicated "more to follow," seemed a practical solution of the issue that might grow out of a promise to obey, love and cherish. As any rate it is a happy rendering of the old custom of the ministerial kissing of the bride, and quite as natural. The homage paid to superstition has rather given away to liberty by the substitution of the floral belt instead of the horseshoes of ancient witchcraft. Oct. 19, 1880.

KINGSVILLE.

Eds. Tel.—As part payment for the "Soft-seller," sooth-saying letters that K. has been sending from here to the News, he was permitted, last week, to insert in its columns a lengthy, glibly written, and upon myself. Some of the statements in that letter would, from almost any other source have started my Irish; but as it is, I am like the boy when kicked by the mule, I consider where it came from.

His first statement is to the effect that he "reads in the names of ten new subscribers for the News, which will cause 'Iron Wood' to gnash his teeth." Just why it will cause me gnash my teeth is not so plain. I do not care if he procures eleven three months subscribers, if he does it by fair means; but one of those ten men has told me himself that he did not know what the paper was before he bought it, and that if it had been fairly represented to him he would not have had it in the house. But it is no wonder he procured the names, for it is just hardly possible when a man speaks as ages. A. Groves, for his conscience to become as elastic as an India-rubber string. Besides, K. has had nothing else to do for a few weeks but to get subscribers, and he has worked like a beaver at it.

He says I misquoted his former letter, and that the word Republicans does not occur in that article. That is true, but he meant Republicans, called one of our prominent Republicans by his initials, and not that men of this stripe would not take a Democratic paper. He referred to the Republicans and he knows it, and he intended that every one who read the letter should know it. He says it is a mystery to "Iron Wood" how any one can listen to a Republican speech and not take down every word of it as law and gospel. That is not true, but it is true, that I cannot comprehend how a man can uphold the Democratic party and its papers—as he did in his letter referred to—and in the same breath say that he will not take a Democratic paper. He referred to the Republicans and he knows it, and he intended that every one who read the letter should know it.

In regard to neighbor G's mantle, I never supposed that I could fill it, and if K. will step under my arm, I think the mantle will cover us both. To reimburse for the terrible strain upon his mental faculties and conscience in his labors for the News that paper has promoted him to captain, and given him two local puff-blasts upon his brain, splitting aetia upon myself.

But for the same reason that it is not fair to hit a man when he is down it is not out to be so severe on K. at the present time, for as soon as he got the returns from the Ohio election he lit out for Nova Scotia on the fastest train he could get, like a woodchuck before a prairie fire.

The above communication from our valued Kingsville correspondent is inserted at the request of himself and some friends. There is not, we think, sufficient general interest in the matter to carry far, and we prefer to let it drop with this article.

NORTH KINGSVILLE.

Eds. Tel.—What a bulwark of independent strength the Ashtabula News man has got to be. His friends may grow cold and forsake him. His former loves may turn their backs. Enemies may hand together for his destruction. The dark, forbidding clouds of heaven may send forth their awful peals, and the responding earth may vibrate beneath his feet, but he is founded on a rock and knows in what he trusts. He has built upon a pyramid of mathematical certainties as old as God.

The lightning may send forth their lurid glare. Tempests may howl around him; blackness and darkness may hide every star in heaven's vault, and the vessel on which he is embarked may quietly lay at anchor, drift about or go to the bottom, what cares he? There is but one possible contingency—some new party may arise, or possibly a sufficient modification of some now existing, but even then the character of the News as a journal would be but slightly changed, and in the final, when he has gone to his reward, it will be said of him, Blessed is he who stood so long unshaken, and kept the News, through life, the only independent weekly in Ohio if not in the Union. Oct. 1880.

Our friend INDEX, always graphic and trenchant, seems to be a little more so when dealing with our usually proud and complacent neighbor—the News-man. The idea of "Independent—not neutral" is rich with complacency, until the people begin to eject it from their riled and revolting stomachs. To begin with so stiff an upper lip and end with whining and lachrymose to those whom he has so steadily endeavored to hoodwink and deceive, shows a character entitled at least to pity if not contempt—perhaps to both.—Eds.

Whiskey and cider barrels are safe when locked up tight. Topky & Co. will sell you a faucet by which, you can put these liquoric-mouthed fellows at bay by locking it off and putting the key in your pocket.

Does It Injure the Skin?

It does not? Hamilton's Oriental Balm is entirely free from anything calculated to injure the skin or health. It is decidedly the best of the market. It removes tan, pimples, freckles, moth patches, black worms or grubs and leaves the skin clear and transparent. Price 50 cents per bottle. Sold by Swift and E. A. Willard, Ashtabula, Parshall, Kingsville, Oct.

OUR ROCHESTER LETTER.

Eds. Tel.—The great topic discussed on every street corner, in every business house, at the breakfast, dinner and supper tables in thousands of homes in this city, is politics. It is every where present. Not a night passes without a torchlight procession for Garfield and Arthur. The Democrats have an occasional demonstration but they lack the enthusiasm which characterizes the Republicans.

I want to tell you how the news from Ohio and Indiana caught us. The Democrats smiled and shook hands over Indiana and possibly Ohio during election day, last week Tuesday. In the evening they were out in full force, all prepared to celebrate the Republican victory, and were not less demonstrative than their Democratic friends. Our office and counting room was thronged with Republicans early in the evening waiting for "wire decisions," bringing intelligence of victory in Ohio and Indiana. The cheering and shouting was heard all over the city. When the news began to arrive and Republicans gained were reported in Indiana and a great majority in Ohio, the delight of the Republicans knew no bounds, tears were shed, men hugged each other, and the wildest exultations ensued. It was only the beginning of the boom which is spreading all over the land. New York is confidently claimed by the Republicans in November and with the best of reasons. The grand way in which Ohio and Indiana have done themselves proud has started a silver in this State that will tear deep in the flesh of Democracy.

To-night Karl Shurz, Secretary of the Interior, delivered a speech to Rochester Germans. The wildest enthusiasm prevailed, thousands of tokens spoke a welcome to the Secretary. Next Wednesday Gen. Grant and Senator Conkling will be here and lead to victory the "Boys in Blue" as in 1864. A glorious time is anticipated. My pencil has been keeping time to political music in the liveliest manner for almost two months, until I am weary of the glories of lights and fireworks.

In my last letter I noted the presence, in this city, of Dr. Slade the spiritual medium and what he phrases to call "spiritual manifestations." Well, he has been investigated and pronounced a fraud, and some of the way of his "mediumship" is exposed. The Rochester public didn't propose to be duped, even if newspaper men were.

A young snow storm was one of the surprises of the season last Sunday night. The weather has been delightfully warm, and pleasant. Crowds of handsome and elegantly dressed women throng the streets.

Places of amusement are being well attended. At the Grand Opera House "Horns of Oak" is being given. Some of the workmen cutting down the boards this week. At the Corinthian Academy of Music Madame Bentz's Female Minstrels hold forth, at the latter place front seats are reserved for married men, gray-haired men and students. Pinafore is even more popular than ever. The Rochester Opera Club presents this charming musical extravaganza next week, and even now the seats are engaged. Social parties have made their bow and appeared for the season of '80-'81.

W. E. Reeves of Ashtabula passed through Rochester Sunday evening, and ground out quite a lot of gossip and town talks from that locality. W. M. M. Rochester, N. Y., Oct. 20th, 1880.

"LITTLE PITTSBURGH."

The editor of the Jefferson Gazette speaking of a recent visit to Ashtabula Harbor says:

As we neared the place, the smoke rolling up over the hills from locomotives, tugs and stationary engines suggested the title "Little Pittsburgh." We arrived at the wharves just in time to witness the muscular feat of Ab. Clark opening the draw to let the huge four-masted vessel, Richard Winslow, depart for the upper lakes. Passing over the bridge we observed gangs of workmen cutting down the bluffs on the east side of the river. Recrossing the bridge, we pass by the wharves, and witness three or four monstrous vessels taking on cargoes of coal, and trains of freight cars unloading the same mineral. Passing still further up stream we witness the "automatic" method of unloading ore vessels. The ore is raised in a huge bucket, by a stationary engine, to a height of fifteen or twenty feet, where it hangs from the bottom of a small car, not unlike a hand-car; as soon as the bucket reaches the desired height, the little car starts swiftly inland upon a high trestle, with the bucket suspended from it. When it arrives at the proper spot the ore is dumped, and the car and bucket returned for another load. No person has to visit the Harbor the past season can imagine the vast amount of iron ore heaped up on the docks of the A. & P. and Lake Shore Companies. We do not exaggerate when we say that if you enjoy mountain scenery, and the Harbor to behold it, and the mountain ranges you will behold are composed of iron ore from the lake Superior mines. Hundreds of cliffs and peaks of ore line the docks, ranging in height from ten to twenty-five feet. The tons of ore reach the docks in hundreds of thousands. We do not believe there is a harbor on Lake Erie that has as good dockage as Ashtabula Harbor. The work is all new at this point, and consequently in good condition. The plan of the splendid future before it, and the amount of ore and coal handled there annually is simply marvelous. When you wish a holiday, just take a jaunt down to Ashtabula seaport and, our word for it, your time will be well spent.
